Serious Error in Norway

Norway Citizens Will Do Well to Profit
by the Following

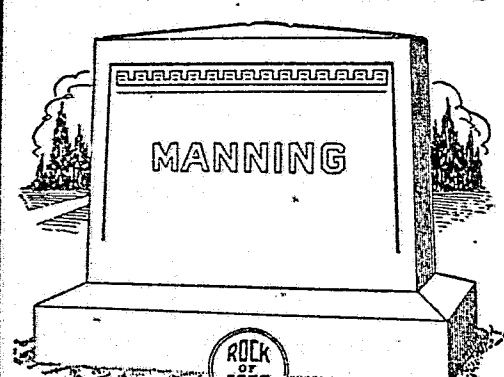

Many fatal cases of kidney disease have reached an incurable stage because the patient did not understand the symptoms. Even today in Norway there are many residents making the same serious error. They attribute their mysterious aches and pains to overwork, or worry, perhaps, when all the time their rheumatic pains, backache and bladder irregularities are most probably due to weak and ailing kidneys. If you are ill, if your kidneys are out of order, profit by this Norway resident's experience.

Mrs. Orville Palmer, lower Main street, says: "Just recently I was suffering from disordered kidneys. My back was painful and it made me restless at night. I was dizzy and everything seemed to turn around in the room. My kidneys didn't act regularly. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in the family with benefit so I decided to go to Clark's Drug Store and get a supply. After using two boxes I was all right so I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Palmer had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

It is the way Essex cars continue their unusually fine and reliable performance that chiefly wins the admiration of owners.

They say it does not grow old. It keeps its new car smoothness. It remains economical, efficient, and inexpensive to maintain and operate. These are qualities expected only in costly cars. And that is what particularly gives emphasis to Essex value at this price.

LOVELL
Hearing was held in Lovell town hall Thursday, Aug. 10th on a request of the Pepperell Manufacturing Co., of Saco, which owns a dam site at Kezar Lake, Lovell, to use the lake as a storage basin for the purpose of holding the surplus in the lake until the period of water shortage each year. Considerable opposition developed from the summer campers on the ground that it will be detrimental to their property. The Pepperell people desire to raise the level of the water four feet and hold this water in reserve until the dry season, which occurs any time from the first of July to the first of August, and sometimes not until September. This would not raise the lake level four feet, however, it is claimed, but would simply hold the water at what is the present high level until the surplus was needed. It is claimed more water would be available to all users of power on the Saco River from that point down and so would be beneficial to the Cumberland County Power & Light Co., which has stations along the river as well as to individual manufacturers. Walter Gray of South Portland represented the Pepperell Manufacturing Co. at the hearing. Hastings & Son of Fryeburg represented the summer colonists and A. J. Stearns of Norway, the town of Lovell. The hearing was not completed and deferred until a later date.

BRYANT'S POND
American Legion and Auxiliary Fair
The American Legion and Auxiliary fair and field day sports with a general get-together promises to be a live, wide awake show. Saturday, Aug. 12 is the date, the V. I. S. athletic field at Bryant's Pond, the place, and the Jackson-Silver Post American Legion and Legion Auxiliary behind the sport. Field contests and sports will include a variety of athletics with Boy Scouts offered a prominent place in each event. Two games of baseball have been arranged between teams from adjoining towns to promote the enthusiasm and good sport. The Jackson-Silver Post have a tug-of-war contest with the Bethel Post, and any American Legion outfit. A snappy water show will include fancy diving, swimming contests and canoe races. Suitable prizes will be awarded in all events. The Midway will be typical of a regular county fair with games of skill, booths and the like, all conducted in a clean orderly manner. Refreshments will be served and a well stocked cafeteria in operation to supply the hungry multitude.

A grand ball in the evening at Dudley Opera House will close the festivities. Music by Eldridge's orchestra. A. R. Cummings is in charge of the Committees for the Legion and Mrs. Jackson is handling the workers in the Auxiliary. Harold C. Perham, County Scout Executive and Leslie Ferguson of Rumford have the field sports in line.

MAINE OUT-DISTANCING OTHER STATES IN RESORT TRAVEL

There is every indication that August will show figures for business done at the State of Maine Publicity Bureau far in excess of what people believed would be the case.

For the past four weeks two young men have been stationed in Longfellow Square, Portland to make a record of the cars passing through it. The location of the Bureau Headquarters in the Pine State building at the junction of Pine State and Congress streets is on the main artery of travel connecting with the Eastern trunk line so that nearly all automobiles coming from the West enter the heart of the city through Longfellow Square. During the four weeks that this record has been kept 5,964 people have called at the Bureau Headquarters seeking information before proceeding on their journey; there have been 37,131 out-of-State cars recorded and in these cars were 76,670 people. There have been 213,032 Maine cars recorded, but this record is probably incomplete, as at times they have come so fast that a proper check could not be kept without missing some of the out-of-State cars, which was of course the principal record to be made.

Reports which are being received from different parts of the State indicate a successful season at nearly all of the resorts, some few having business slightly under normal. Maine seems to be particularly fortunate in this respect during the present season, as reports from other resort states indicate only about 50% of normal business. Inasmuch as several of the leading resorts of Maine have reported to the Publicity Bureau that their business is considerably ahead of last year the Bureau can well feel that its efforts through its big publicity campaign carried on in the dailies of the big cities during May and June have brought results which have entirely proven the necessity and value of the Bureau as the means of attracting the attention to Maine, the Playground of the Nation, and its manifold offerings for the entertainment and comfort of the summer tourists such as no other State in the Union offers.

Had it not been for the long stretch of continuous rains just at that season of the year when people were making plans and starting on their vacations a banner season would have been the experience of Maine. The railroad strike also had an influence in pulling down the volume of travel in all parts of the country, as a great many people have felt timid about travelling on the railroads. This is proven by the fact that many people now in Maine have written to the Bureau asking for information about travelling by trolley or steamer lines on their return journey.

New Hampshire has realized the value of her summer tourist business and being fearful that it might be taken away from her by the efforts made to turn the tide of travel to Europe, Canada and elsewhere has realized that something must be done and is now trying to raise a fund of $100,000 for this purpose.

The Maine Publicity Bureau's future is being founded on a bed-rock of service which is the reason why every letter received is given the most careful attention and detailed information sent in the fullest possible manner. With such service as the Bureau is giving that great Army of Vacation Seekers, which only need suggestions as to where the rest and happiness which they seek can be found, is the surest way of creating a River of Gold, which will flow continuously from the cities in other States which are not so blessed as is Maine, to the cash box of every line of business in the entire state, for while the bulk of the money when first spent goes to the hotel, boarding houses, transportation lines, garages and these other business enterprises which cater directly to summer travel, from them in turn it goes to the bank account of the wholesale grocer, the produce dealer, the merchant who handles table linens, china ware and every other commodity that goes to feed the guests of the hotels and to supply their sleeping and other living requirements during their temporary stay with us. In addition much of the money received by the various lines of business activity is in turn paid out in salaries to the State, spend it locally.

Maine is the portal through which the army of summer tourists is constantly moving to the romance which lies beyond and the Bureau is making every possible effort to turn the tide of travel farther east, which for years has come to the White Mountains, simply because they did not know of the riches in gorgeous scenery, sparkling lakes and towering mountains which make up the Great Pine Tree State.

SUMMIT SPRING BURYING GROUND

Among the old and interesting burying grounds in this section of Maine is the last resting place of members of several large families residing in or near a neighborhood in Harrison, Maine.

Summit Spring Hotel is located near this interesting yard, which was once a part of the Nathaniel Burnham farm cleared early in the year 1800. Here Summer Burnham was born in 1809 and lived some fifty years. Afterward he settled in Norway and became prominent in the affairs of the town. Mr. Burnham's death occurred at Norway in 1878 and he left a widow, who was Christina Washburn formerly of Hebron, and several children.

Some fifty remains lie in the burying ground. The following inscriptions are records on the headstones, copied by Mildred E. Seitz, daughter of the owner of Summit Spring Hotel property.

ALWAYS TIRED NO AMBITION

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me.
How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana.—"My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me in my right side. I felt badly about four years and could not do my work as it should have been done. I saw Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself.
I am feeling fine now and every one tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do." Mrs. HENRY LONG, R. R. 3, Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition.
When you are in this condition give it prompt attention.

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles, as it did for Mrs. Long.

WHAT A WORKER CAN DO

The wonderful dexterity acquired by American women in industry is illustrated by the following account in The World Almanac, taken from the records of an investigator for the United States Department of Labor:

A telephone operator's average daily hours are eight and one-half, but with overtime, Sunday work, "working through," "loss of relief," "cess loading," these are often exceeded. Two hundred and twenty-five calls per hour, or three and one-half per minute, seems an example of real "speed," and yet the "peak load" often exceeds this.

The needle trades a girl tends a sewing machine carrying twelve needles making 4,000 stitches a minute, or 2,400,000 in ten hours, often working in a bright light and with unshaded eyes, and amidst a deafening roar.

In the pea-canning industry a girl inspects two cans of peas per second or 72,000 per day. The cappers place the caps on the cans at the rate of sixty to eighty per minute.

In the shoe industry a workman revolves the shoe in such manner as to trim off the crimped surplus leather from the "upper." His task is 5,200 shoes a day.

In the eyeletting department of the shoe industry an expert worker can finish 2,000 pairs of women's shoes in one day. Each of these shoes has as many as twelve holes irregularly spaced, making 48,000 eyelets per day.

STAY YOUNG

Disenchantment in regard to life is a sign of age—age in experience if not in years. Therefore if we want to be young and stay young, we must keep our spirit of enchantment. We must look for the interesting in all experiences and must not allow ourselves to get to the point where we look forward to work, eat and sleep. We should greet each day as a new adventure. If we but open our eyes and hearts, we will find the world about us both marvelous and entertaining.

DAY OF HOOKED RUG BACK

Rugs as well as hats and clothes have their seasons. Summer rugs suggest porch rugs. But there are indoor hot weather varieties—hooked rugs, cotton rugs, braided rugs, an infinite variety. The best of the most important of them is the hooked rug. The intricate, well-balanced floral shell designs in delightful color schemes make rugs that should never be relegated to second place in winter.

Probably everyone knows by this time how hooked rugs are made, but their variations are quite so familiar. Ordinarily the little pieces of wool or cotton that are pulled through the canvas are left in the small loop that has been hooked up from the canvas. Sometimes, however, and as a general thing in the better rugs, the loops are cut so that the effect is unlike a soft Axminster. Another variation of the usual style is the padding of certain parts of the design so that they stand quite high from the rest of the rug. This may be done to flowers or in fact any prominent part of the design, but it is particularly effective when the rug is of a deep color or similar bunches of fruit or foliage are used.

A rug that has been in fashionable use for a longer period than the hooked rug, the rag rug of another century still holds high place in the decoration of the summer home. These are cotton rugs and come in either the well-known hick-or-miss pattern of many colors or a solid color with a woven floral border at either end.

For use in the general living room of a house that keeps to the colonial tradition at any time the hooked rug is more what more fitting. The more dignified seems to be theirs, perhaps because of the touch of formality that comes of the tedious process of braiding and winding round and round. Aside from this, they have several degrees of thickness, the rag rug which makes them more suited physically to the living room, dining room and hall.

In design these rugs are always interesting for they may have centers of solid color outlined in much the same way as the rag rug. Bands of solid color may be used in any width about this section, or several may be employed.

THE UNPOPULAR CRITIC

Don't stand around on street corners and growl at the weather but milk your cows, or in other terms, do what your hands may find to do. You will fare much better, be contented and more contented and have far fewer possibilities of becoming a millionaire doing something for small pay than doing nothing and squandering the little you may have got.

Things may not be the best; they may not be good, and yet we may like them because we are used to them. Isn't a very good excuse for them existence. And so, if it takes an outside, to wake us up with a well-aimed criticism, we can not afford to be finicky about his remarks. Kindly or otherwise, his hints may be useful. Let's ask our neighbors what they think of our town and why they think it. We ought to get some valuable suggestions and an open mind is never a fault.

One pushing, advertising merchant does more to bring thrift into a community than fifty who huddle by their stoves and wait for business to come else. A dozen live business men reaching out in the byways and hedges for business can make any town hum with prosperity. The rest of the world is within its borders. Don't be a sponge and simply absorb; show a little enterprise and a spirit of helpfulness in the town where you live, and to some extent join hands with others in keeping your town to the front.

It is said that dancing makes girls make freckles. Doctors are of the opinion that hanging on the front gate produces rheumatism. A few more opinions like these and the girls won't have more fun left them.—Colebrook Sentinel.

Boys and girls have you written your letter to be printed in the Advertiser? We want a lot of the boys and girls to write some interesting letters for the Children's Corner. We know you will have lots of fun writing them and still more reading those from other boys and girls. Send them to-day to the Norway Advertiser.

The days go by on tip-toes.

BRIDGTON FAIR

Bad weather on the first day causing the fair to be set aside, failed to deaden the enthusiasm or keep away the crowds when clearing skies and warm sunshine signaled to open and go after it.

The midway features started Wednesday with a snap with the usual games and sports. The hall was the center of interest with a small but excellent display of handiwork. A radio demonstration of music imparted to a crowd that remained around the exhibit. Pianos and Victrolas were in evidence and these supplied excellent music for the hall.

Music on the grounds was furnished by the Boys' Band of Lewiston. Governor Baxter attended Thursday. He was accompanied by members of his staff, Gen. Hadley and Col. Gardner and private secretary G. B. Chadbourne. Local members of the party were Herman Cook, Rev. W. A. Richmond, Councilor Lombard and Harry Lightfoot. Gov. Baxter delivered a brief speech and was given an ovation.

Baseball attracted throngs along the side lines. Keary Falls won easily over the Puffers of Portland, the score was 10-2.

The races were hotly contested with generous sums hung up for purses. Large fields were the rule with veteran reinmen in a regular scrap to win the opening event in a long string of affairs. Evans, the noted horseman, drove George Harvey five heats in the 2:30 stake trot for big money. Best mark for the fair was 2:15½ in the 2:17 class, mixed.

REMEDY RAVAGES OF THE WAR

We need yet to get down to a few basic principles, in order to remedy present ills. One is the realization of the fact that the only possible way to repair the ravages of the great war is for everybody to settle down to hard work, rather than to hold as our ambition the doing of a minimum amount of labor. Another is that the only way to settle the taxation problem satisfactorily is to curtail government expenditures. It is impossible for cities, states and nations to spend money without somebody's having to pay it and sooner or later it is the great body of the people who have to pay, no matter what the form of taxation. Creation of new forms of taxation tends to increase extravagance of expenditure, rather than to promote economy.

Bro. Nichols of the Bath Daily Times observes the 25th anniversary of his own-ship of that paper with a three section edition. It is well and modestly done and exceptionally interesting. It is the product of an up-to-date plant probably the best in any city of equal size in New England. Bath citizens are rightly proud of their Evening Daily.

NORWAY ADVERTISER

AS TO ADVERTISING

If you are in business or following a profession, careful thought will show that you are so situated or so equipped as to serve quite a number of people better than any one else. If you have abilities like Wanamaker, Filene or Henry Ford this number will be very large and you will be very successful. If your abilities are limited, or if you lack the "pep" and energy to make use of them, the number whom you serve will be small, and your success in life will be correspondingly moderate. If the number is small enough you are doomed to failure so far as an enterprise of your own is concerned. If this is the case you ought to discover it as quickly as possible, and market what abilities you have to some one else. You may be available and useful as an employee if not fitted by nature and temperament for the management of a business of your own.

No matter how many people you are fitted to serve you will not get very far unless you let them know about it. This is where advertising comes in to the mutual advantage of everybody concerned. If you can serve any considerable number of people better than any one else it is to their advantage as well as yours that they should know about it. This thought should be prominent in your mind when you consider the subject of advertising. Don't look upon it as a means of getting some business which would otherwise go to your competitor, although incidentally this may sometimes be the result. If advertising, however, can do more than divert a certain amount of patronage from one store or factory to another, it would be a very suppressed by-law. As a matter of fact it instructs the buyer or the man in need of services where his needs can be best met, and thus performs a very useful function in the economy and progress of the world. A merchant or manufacturer should take no great pride in stealing away patronage from a place where its needs are already being excellently served. On the other hand anyone may take great pleasure and pride in making known their ability to serve patrons better than they have been previously furnished.

No business is big enough or prosperous enough but what its prosperity could be increased by advertising and no business is too small or too hopeless to be improved or rescued by a judicious advertising campaign.—Independent Reporter.

OUR RURAL SABBATH

In simpler times Sunday was a day of rest. It is now merely a day like the rest—only more so. If we are urban dwellers we flit to the country. If we dwell in the country we are flattered from dawn till the moon goes down.

Consider the country Sabbath. It used to be a day of quiet. Farmer or villager sat on his porch, resting from his six days of labor, nodding occasionally to a neighbor jogging by behind his easy goat team of horses. He read or dozed or chatted with his family as the spirit moved; hitched up his own horse and took a drive if the wife suggested it. Restful, peaceful, wholesome Sunday; how the memory of it comes back to thousands now in middle life or beyond who would give a fortune for something like it again.

That was years ago. Sunday is still every seventh day, but along the main thoroughfare of the state it bears little further resemblance to the Sunday of other years. Every improved road is now a Sunday speedway. Residents along course enjoy about as much quiet as overtime workers in a boiler factory. The breakfast procession starts by the time the breakfast dishes are washed and it ends long after bed time. If farmer's wife wants to cross the road to his fields on the other side he must take as many precautions for safety as his city cousin needs in crossing the public square.

But the noisy, dusty, gas-breathing procession is not the worst. If city motorists would keep going the lot of the rural dweller would be more endurable. The real trouble for him comes when he happens to own an enticing wood lot, an inviting spring, a well laden orchard or berry patch near the highway. There are camping spots where motorists are welcome; most motorists respect the property rights of country dwellers, but always there are enough lawless ones to give the whole company of Sunday tourists a bad name. Individuals who would not for a moment think of stealing from their corner grocer have no qualms about raiding a farmer's orchard or garden. Men and women who would not demean themselves by throwing garbage or tin cans or dirty paper napkins on their neighbor's lawn in town seem to see nothing reprehensible in trespassing on a country dweller's premises and, departing, leaving the place littered with the unsavory remnants of their picnic dinner.

Dust and noise and gasoline odors from the street; trespass, petty thieving and lawless disregard for property rights; driving the farmer's horse and carriage off the highway; running down dogs and poultry and even children unless they are alert—is it any wonder that thousands of rural dwellers look on the new Sunday with horror and dismay?

There is no more country, one hears it said. Well, who is to blame, if it be true? Not the country dweller, we submit. The new country and even the new country Sabbath doubtless have redeeming features, but our sympathy goes to those who have their homes in rural places that used to be quiet and who see in the weekly wheeled invasion a pest and nuisance for which they are in no way responsible.—Boston Reporter.

FEW HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A little lemon improves pineapple preserve.
After dinner coffee should be made double strength.

A teaspoonful of baking powder will make fudge more creamy.

A cabbage leaf is an excellent medium for cleaning greasy tinware.

Grease spots on wallpaper should be rubbed with tamponated chalk.

Never cook stews too fast or the meat will become hard and tough.

Boil a new clothesline. This will prevent it from stretching and make it last longer.

Let potatoes lie in cold water for a while before paring them if you wish them to be white.

A good remedy for a cut is raw starch. It should be wetted and applied as soon as possible.

Add vinegar to the water in which table glasses are rinsed; it will give an extra brilliancy to the polish.

All of us are so profoundly egotistical that all of us believe we could do wonders if we only had capital.

Annual Bass Island Party

Capt. Chas. H. Masury of Salem, Mass. has made his 41st visit to this island. His first was in 1881. Clarence M. Smith of Norway is probably the only one now living who was with him then. Mr. Smith with the writer of this called there last Friday and enjoyed the company of the party.

The others in the party were: Henry Newhall, John Danforth and Fred Barber of Salem, Mass. Norman Richmond (Happy) of New York as they called him whose wife was stopping at Beals Tavern; Alfred F. Masurey, son of Captain Charles and Chief Engineer and vice president of the International Motor Co. of New York who are the makers of the Mack Truck; Wm. S. Merrill, president of the Merrill Steel Spring Co. of New York; Frank Filter of the Standard Oil Co. of Cambridge, Mass. and Harry Ringrose, chauffeur of the International.

Thursday a party of International people were found in the village and brought to the island. It seems they were having a vacation tour through the Mountains and by accident met Alfred Masury who invited them to call. They were:

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Savacool of Glen Ridge, N. J. Mr. Savacool is comptroller of the International Motor Co.; Col. and Mrs. F. A. Warren of Philadelphia, who has charge of the company's sales in Pennsylvania, also M. W. Maynard of Boston and H. J. McKinnon of Portland who has a similar position with the company.

John T. Judkins

Many of the older residents in Norway will remember John T. Judkins whose death occurred June 27th in Cheela Vista, California. His age was 95 years.

Mr. Judkins while a resident of Boston sixty years ago spent several summers in Norway and formed the acquaintance of Lucy Richardson, the daughter of John Richardson of this town, and sister of Mark G. Richardson who resides at Noble's Corner. She was a milliner at the village and attractive. This friendship culminated in the marriage which took place in 1854. They resided in Boston several years and passed several weeks each summer at the Richardson farm.

About thirty-five years ago they moved to Cheela Vista, Calif. when that section was laid out to ranches and in reality grew up with the place. They were charter members of the Congregational church there and after the death of his wife eleven years ago, Mr. Judkins gave the church a pipe-organ as a memorial to her memory.

For several years he has been a member of the family at Fredericks Home. Though totally blind and deaf his mental faculties were retained to a marked degree and great was the pleasure to recall events in his early years around Boston.

His remains were laid beside those of his wife at Cheela Vista.

Marguerite Welch, a nurse training in the Eye and Ear Infirmary at Portland is at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merrett Welch. Her sister Marion will return to Portland with her and enter the Eye and Ear to take a nurses training course.

Perival J. Parris, editor of the Oxford Register in 1875 while it was published in Norway, has retired from his position with the New York Life Ins. Co. and returned to occupy the family homestead at Paris Hill. His efforts hereafter will be chiefly directed to making the farm look as it did when he was a boy. Mr. Parris was in town Saturday on business.

"The name 'Ginn Hotel' passes into history. William Jenkins, the owner and proprietor has changed its name to 'Norway Inn' and has a sign there proving the fact.

Conserve the Coal by Cooking Electrically

The Maine Fuel Administration says that no hard coal will be shipped to Maine this winter. So, unless you already have a supply, you will have to do your cooking with some other fuel.

Without any intent to capitalize the unfortunate circumstances, we suggest as a practical solution of the serious cooking question the use of the

ELECTRIC RANGE

Much of the discomfort and inconvenience that is bound to be experienced as a result of the coal shortage can be relieved by the use of electricity for cooking. By making a 3c cooking rate—about a third your regular lighting rate—we offer you an insistent help in saving coal for heating purposes. Experiments show that electricity for cooking, at this rate, is at least a third cheaper than coal.

Every pound of coal saved in cooking will be available for heating.

Any one of our local representatives or town representatives will be glad to show you the many coal economies which the range makes possible.

The electric cooking idea is sweeping the country. Unless all signs fail there will soon be an overwhelming demand for electric ranges. Many foresighted people, anticipating the acute fuel shortage, have already placed their order for a range. If you want to make sure of having a practical cooking range for the present emergency, we recommend that you place your order immediately.

Mrs. Claude A. Haskell

Mrs. Minnie Haskell, wife of Claude A. Haskell of North Norway passed to the higher life shortly after ten o'clock Friday, August 4th after an illness of nearly six weeks. Mrs. Haskell was a great sufferer from the very first days of her illness, but she bore her suffering with wonderful courage and patience. Her youngest son George a child of about five years, cut his foot badly and though given the best of medical attention blood poisoning developed. Mrs. Haskell's hand became infected through a scratch received while washing and a very severe form of blood poisoning set in which later developed into tuberculosis of the bowels. Some of the best nurses to be obtained were in attendance both night and day and several local doctors were called, also expert medical advice was obtained from away in fact everything that human love and skill could do was done to save her but all to no avail.

In the passing of Mrs. Haskell the community loses a woman of more than ordinary intelligence and one who was ever ready to lend a helping hand in times of sickness and trouble. The home loses a loving wife and mother and the parents a daughter on whose strong sustaining arm they had hoped to rely more or less through their declining years.

Mrs. Haskell was born in North Norway, March 3rd, 1880, the daughter of Edwin A. and Isissie Hobbs Cox and had lived practically all her life in the Swift's Corner neighborhood.

She graduated from Hebron Academy in 1898, her class being the largest up to that time of any class that was ever graduated from that institution.

She was a successful teacher for several years. She was united in marriage with Claude A. Haskell of Harrison in 1904, three sons having been born to them. She leaves to mourn their loss her husband and three sons, Francis, Gerald and George, also her father and mother and two brothers, Claude Cox of Auburn and Carlton Cox of Norway and numerous other relatives.

The funeral was held from her girlhood home at 2 p. m., Monday afternoon, Aug. 7th. Quantities of beautiful flowers surrounded the casket, silent tokens of the love and esteem in which she was held by her many relatives, neighbors and friends. Rev. C. G. Miller of the Universalist church spoke beautiful words of comfort and sympathy to the bereaved family. Interment was in Pine Grove Cemetery. Though she is dead, yet will she live forever in the hearts of her husband and children.

Conserve the Coal by Cooking Electrically

Without any intent to capitalize the unfortunate circumstances, we suggest as a practical solution of the serious cooking question the use of the

ELECTRIC RANGE

Much of the discomfort and inconvenience that is bound to be experienced as a result of the coal shortage can be relieved by the use of electricity for cooking. By making a 3c cooking rate—about a third your regular lighting rate—we offer you an inestimable help in saving coal for heating purposes. Experiments show that electricity for cooking, at this rate, is at least a third cheaper than coal.

Every pound of coal saved in cooking will be available for heating.

Any one of our local representatives or town representatives will be glad to show you the many coal economies which the range makes possible.

The electric cooking idea is sweeping the country. Unless all signs fail there will soon be an overwhelming demand for electric ranges. Many foresighted people, anticipating the acute fuel shortage, have already placed their order for a range. If you want to make sure of having a practical cooking range for the present emergency, we recommend that you place your order immediately.

AUTO RACES at the Oxford County Fair

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15

The announcement that Friday, Sept. 15th, has been set aside as Auto race day, and that a program of sensational auto races will be given, has aroused considerable interest. "Following the practice at the larger fairs, we have decided to devote one day of the fair to Auto Races," said Mr. Frothingham, secretary of the South Paris Fair. Arrangements have been made with the Eastern Motor Racing Association to furnish at least six speedy racing cars with professional drivers to stage a program of short fast auto races for Auto Day of the fair program. The regular vaudeville program will be given on auto race day, but the real interest will be in the speed contests that will have the tracks set aside for them. Thousands of people gather yearly to see the track drivers thrill and entertain with their nifty driving, and the Oxford County fair has decided to give the speed fans the thrills which seem so popular everywhere. Some of the leading drivers of the east will be entered in these races headed by George F. Johnson one of New York's racing stars. Johnson has entered his Special Stutz, which will be given on auto race day, but the real interest will be in the speed contests that will have the tracks set aside for them.
